

We are based in Lancashire and we're committed to putting the County first with new jobs, economic growth and community benefits promoting prosperity for future generations of Lancastrians in the following ways

Our commitments to the County are:

- We will increase energy security for Lancashire and Britain as we become operational
- We will carry out our operations to the highest safety and environmental standards and communicate openly
- We will work with local partners to promote Lancashire as a hub for the UK shale gas industry with new jobs and economic growth
- We will prioritise Lancashire suppliers and publish the amount we are spending
- We will support local training opportunities for young people including the National Onshore Oil and Gas College based at Blackpool & The Fylde College
- We will share the benefits of shale gas by sponsoring educational and sporting projects and through a local community benefit scheme
